

SUN TEACHER @ FUTURES/CHOICES JOB DESCRIPTION

Title: SUN Teacher

Qualifications: Must be currently licensed by MDE in a special education teaching area with ASD license preferred. Ability to deliver IEP services resulting from an interdisciplinary team model. Experience with students in a setting that provides group and 1:1 instruction for academic, social, behavioral, sensory, communication, work experience and independent living skills is desired.

Reports to: Special Education Coordinator

Position Summary: The SUN Teacher will deliver special education services based on an appropriate IEP. The teacher is responsible for delivering functional academic, social, behavioral, communication, and sensory programs that will lead towards an increase in independence in the core transition areas. The transition teacher is also responsible for needed assessment, diagnostic and due process services required by the federal and state standards.

Responsibilities:

- Assess students' special education needs using existing procedures leading to the development of the IEP.
- Plan and implement daily lessons for academic, social, behavioral, communication, and sensory needs of students based on IEP.
- Provide appropriate and effective instructional services to students identified and in need of the specialized strategies and services of the program.
- Collect and utilize student daily performance data to measure progress on educational goals.
- Communicate student progress to parents, the multidisciplinary team and other professionals on a consistent basis so that appropriate IEP planning and delivery of services may occur.
- Write quarterly reports regarding student progress that will match student report card grading periods, as well as reports needed to communicate to other partners within the interagency team.
- Provide case management and ensure the development of appropriate Individual Education Plans.
- Ensure compliance with due process procedures and parental rights.
- Provide direction to the specialized paraprofessionals to ensure adherence to all policies and procedures of the student IEP, the program, and the Zumbro Education District.
- Other responsibilities as directed by the Special Education Coordinator
